

Nikolina Peša Pavlović, PhD is a postdoctoral researcher at the Department of Information Sciences. In 2016, she enrolled in the postgraduate university doctoral study programme Knowledge Society and Information Transfer at the University of Zadar. She earned a PhD in Social Sciences, Information and Communication Sciences at the University of Zadar in 2022. She teaches undergraduate and graduate courses at the Department of Information Sciences and undergraduate courses in Information Technology. She is a member of the Laboratory for Interactive Systems and User Experience at the University of Zadar (UX Lab), where she conducts usability testing and user experience research. Her scientific and teaching interests include user information behaviour in the online environment, scientific communication and information literacy, user information system design, information search systems, and the broader field of user experience (UX) research and usability testing.

MBZ: 357420

CROSBI profil

Google Znalac profil